

LESSON PLAN

HUMAN MASTERMIND

OVERVIEW

Before the group starts the activity, pick a person to stand on each piece of paper (do not share this with the group). Write this down to help you facilitate the activity.

Once the group is ready, tell them that each of them serves a purpose in their quest to achieve this activity. You have selected four people who have the opportunity to represent the group on the different pieces of paper.

Ask the group to place one person on each piece of paper, and you will tell them two different things:

1. How many of them should be on the pages.
2. How many of them are in the correct position.

The group has to get the exact person on each page that you picked earlier. Each time they put four people on the pages, you tell them the two things. Continue until they get it correct.
